There were no specific demands and no particular grievance against anyone that I could determine," Ling

"These electricians were apparently notifying the general public that in their opinion wages paid electricians by the Pan Am Corporation are not comparable to wages paid for similar work at other companies," Ling reported. The NSTL spokesman said Pan Am is a contractor at the test site, "but as far as I know, Pan Am dosen't employ any electricians at NSTL." Ling said the picket line was set up

Tuesday about 4:30 a.m. on Hwy. 607 just north of Interstate-10 in the NSTL buffer zone, and on the facility's

Picayune access road to the north. He said workers honoring the picket line Tuesday were primarily employed by Weaver "who holds a quick-reaction construction contract at NSTL for the type of work which is not let out on

There is otherwise no major construction underway at the site at this time, Ling stated.

He said the picket line was removed sometime late Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning, and resumed again about 4:30 a.m. Wednesday morning.

By 10 a.m. Wednesday, the pickets were gone from a "reserve gate" where they had been requested to station themselves by NASA officials. Ling said NASA has a contractual arrangement with unions and contractors that pickets and employes of the company being picketed use a designated entrance area in order that they not interfere with the free passage of persons not involved in the dispute. "I guess they got their message across," Ling said of the sudden disappearance of the pickets.

The age old problem of sewer breaks was discussed by council with George Kleinpeter of Burk and Associates, who made sketches of the N. Second and St. George Sts. and deMontluzin-Necaise breaks plus about 20 more field sketches in other areas of the City.

Kleinpeter recommended that the manhole not be rebuilt at the Second and St. George as he felt it not necessary, but did recommend a new manhole at deMontluzin-Necaise. The depth of the sewer line at both these manholes is 15 and a half feet and the sewer line is 10 inches in diameter.

Safe jogging and running

(Presented as a Public Service by the Mississippi State Medical Association and this newspaper.)

Jogging or running has become a favorite American way to get and stay in good physical shape. Here are some suggestions for safe, sensible jogging and running:

When first starting to jog, walk for a while, then jog for a while. Gradually shorten the walking and lengthen the jogging time until you are only jogging.

Good running shoes are a must to prevent shin splints, muscle and joint injuries. Be sure the shoes are properly fitted and wear loose-fitting comfortable clothes. Clothes should not be long enough to trip on and should be adequate protection against the Start every jogging session with limbering up exercises to the arms, shoulders, back, hips and legs.

Follow the limbering up exercises with one lap (1/4 mile) of walking before starting to jog or run. The session is finished in the same manner by a one lap walk. This allows the heart rate to gradually build up and gradually slow

Do not run until exhausted and quit. Instead, try to use the principle of "internal training" when beginning a jogging program. You will improve more rapidly by doing sets of exercises and resting in between, rather than running until you are exhausted.

Don't run every day when beginning. There is some evidence that injuries may be reduced when a novice runner exercises every other day, rather than daily, until he or she gets used to the exercise and builds up stamina.

Expect some foot, ankle, knee and hip difficulties at first - they are sure to come. Don't be discouraged by this but don't push hard when difficulties do

Run softly and lightly. Do not run as if you are trying "to stomp hard." Good runners have loose shoulders and look as though they are floating. Run "in balance and tall." Do not slump.

Make your schedule for increasing the length of running time a loose one but have an overall aim of gradually increasing the time.

Do not be concerned with the speed of running but concentrate on length of time spent running. Long Slow Distance (LSD) is the secret to enjoyable, beneficial running with a minimum of discouragement and in-

Another item of importance is to be in good physical condition before starting an exercise program. For the man or woman past 40 who decides to start jogging, a physical examination is advisable, to make certain there are no conditions that would limit exertion.

Many books on jogging are available but a reference favored by some Mississippi physicians who jog regularly is Aerobics by Dr. Kenneth Cooper of Dallas.

The city also contends it does not have excess funds to settle the debt in one payment without an illegal tax levy

Several weeks ago Bay St.I.ouis filed a payment plan, also at Judge Cox's request, under which it would apply $42,000 annually to the debt.

Hunter allegedly claims the utility system has built up a large surplus because the city transfers $60,000 annually to it.

The plan "shows an excess of $171,000" in revenue sharing funds as of the city's last audit report on Sept. 30, allocated to Bay St. Louis for Oct. 1, 1977, through Sept. 30, 1978. The city also has 'approximately' $24,000 in anti-

New Orleans is presenting a community forum on the "German U-Boat Activities in the Gulf of Mexico during World War II." This forum is intended to delete allegations, innuendos and other hearsay statements concerning the cooperation with the enemy of some American citizens who lived along the Gulf Coast at the time. In the course of our research, we did not find any solid evidence supporting some of the present accusations leveled against certain persons or families who made money after the war. We welcome any statement from your readers, supportive of or contrary to our position. A preview of this subject will appear in the April 2 issue of Dixie, a Sunday supplement to the Times-Picayune. I would appreciate any comment from your readers sent

To get warm we would stand by the old time fireplace. When one side was warming from the radiant heat, the other side would get cold. I remember well how we would face the fire until we got warm and then turn 'round with our backs to the fire to get our back sides warm. This was true in most homes in the old days as well as in boarding houses.

I stayed in boarding houses in a number of places in my young days. I stayed in boarding houses when I went to college. There was no cafe in the little town where I went to school, the boarding houses serving meals to guests there. There were six regular boarders where I stayed. It was run by a lady who was operating the place as a way sending her husband through college. There were a number of boarding houses in this little college town, but no hotel or restaurant. At one place where I boarded, a nice young lady stayed for a time. She got lots of attention from the other boarders, all men. On her birthday 'she got presents from almost everyone there. When other boarders had birthdays, the presents were conspicuously absent.

I don't remember having plumbing at any of the boarding house rooms where I stayed. We had a bowl and pitcher of water sitting usually on a small marble top table for the convenience of occupants. Constant hot water was a luxury few places had, though water was kept hot for boarders use by a hot water coil in the kitchen range, which provided hot water for about one hour in the early morning for shaving and washing, and about one hour in the late afternoon. On Saturday, the water was kept hot all day so that everyone could take a bath. It was the usual thing to take a bath once a week. It was very unusual for anyone to take a bath during week days. A person who wanted to bathe more often was considered very odd of "prissy."

transients stayed. All rooms in every boarding place I ever stayed had double beds. It was unusual to have a bed to one's self. A double bed was the rule in the boarding houses where I stayed and two to the bed. If one wanted a room and bed all to himself in most boarding houses he would have to pay extra for it.

By present day standards, board was cheap. I once had a nice room and three meals a day for $20 per month. When the rate was raised to $25 per month, I thought it was terrible.

For that low price the meals were really good - just think of it, a good clean room to stay in and three good meals a day for only $20 or $25 per month!

In a small town boarding house one met many interesting people. One that I got to know was an old travelling salesman. He came on Monday every week and stayed over night. Travelling salesmen back then travelled on the trains, and they had to do much waiting around between trains after they had called on their customer or customers. This old man liked to talk. I heard him say a number of times, "I've never known a boarding house week for regular boarders, keeper to have an old maid daughter." He would say "getting in love is not what makes them get married, it is being brought together often " He would say, "old proximity makes weddings." When I first heard that word I had to look it up in the dictionary to see its meaning. I found that it means "close together."

Another travelling salesman was a big tease. He would contrive in some way to make the landlady angry in order to get to listen to her bawl him out. He seemed to really enjoy it. When he died the good lady grieved for him she missed his regular visits and his teasings.

One little hotel and boarding house was across the railway track from the depot. Almost all patrons came by train and left by train as cars were not in common use around 1912 to 1917. In the little town there were very few places to go. I with many others often met the passenger trains. I often bought magazines from the "butler boy" to have something to read in idle times. Radio and of course TV were unknown in those days and there were few sources of diversion or amusement. We walked everywhere we went unless we rode the trains, or boarding houses where I hired a rig at the livery stable.

'Happy Easter' is wished by citizen to her town An Easter display has been Egg, circa 1850. It belonged to blaced in the City-County Public Library. The display has been lent by Joe Pilet of Bay St. Louis, who says it is her way of saying "Happy Easter." to all who visit the library during the week.

Included in the exhibit are two "very special rabbits", one carved by the Reverend Durrie Hardin, long time rector of Trinity Episcopal Church of Pass Christian: another a bronze rabbit, a gift of the late Reverend Wharton, who served as minister both in the Pineville and Long Beach Presbyterian churches. There are other interesting rabbits: Pewter onyx from Mexico, porcelain about three dozen of them; a "Thumper" molded in Pewter; brass rabbits, crystal ones that are hand-blown and a large glass rabbit - like the ones the "butch" used to bring through when children were passengers on Pullman trains and were eager to buy treats found in the hollows of rabbits and little red lanterns.

The Easter display has birds, too,; ceramic sparrows and quail; a clear green bird' a-nesting in a pink depression glass bowl; a lovely glass duck, Venetian glass that is: and a couple of milk glass setting hens that are miniatures; and there are two alabaster doves from Italy. Probably the oldest and most unusual item is an Easter

Colonel Nunez Pilet's mother, and was given to him in 1910 when he was a lad of ten years.

There is also an array of small pitchers: A clear glass Latin Key, a pirate's mug, a pink Tobin, a yellow grape and leaf design made in Liechtenstein (world's smallest country), Arkansas miniature pitcher and bowl; a Paul & Cox Co. creamer from a now defunct pottery of New Orleans; a small and delicate study in Victorian China, chrysanthemums in mulberry red with 24 carat gold edging; a creamer made in Finland; a creamer approximately a century old; an ornate creamer, a Golden castle creamer of Japan; a bit of Noritake's No. 520. The City-County Public Library is an inviting place to visit at any season, but rather special during Easter and the National Library Week.

This spirit is demonstrated by the Telephone Pioneers of America, the world's largest association of industrial employees.

Who are the Pioneers? They are active and retired telephone company employees with more than eighteen years service.

Mississippi's Telephone Pioneers carry out many humanitarian projects that touch the lives of children, the elderly, the handicapped, the lonely and the sick.

Telephone Pioneers serve as hospital volunteers, provide entertainment and recreation programs for elderly shut-ins and institutionalized youngsters, and wrap bandages for the Red Cross and hospitals They transcribe textbooks into braille for blind students, record books and repair the talking book machines on which the records are played. They assist in screening pre-schoolers for visual defects and collect eyeglasses for the needy.

Pioneers are caring people who live and work with the idea of finding better ways to help people. They exemplify the spirit of service-always a hallmark of telephone people.

The Gulf Coast Council of the Telephone Pioneers of America has 395 members, including life members, affiliate members and associate members residing in the coastal area of South Pearl River, Hancock, Harrison and Jackson Counties.

ALGERIAN GAS FOR THE UNITED GAS SYSTEM BY 1983

In addition to oil and gas exploration, development and production activities, United is engaged in programs leading to greater involvement in supplemental energy projects.

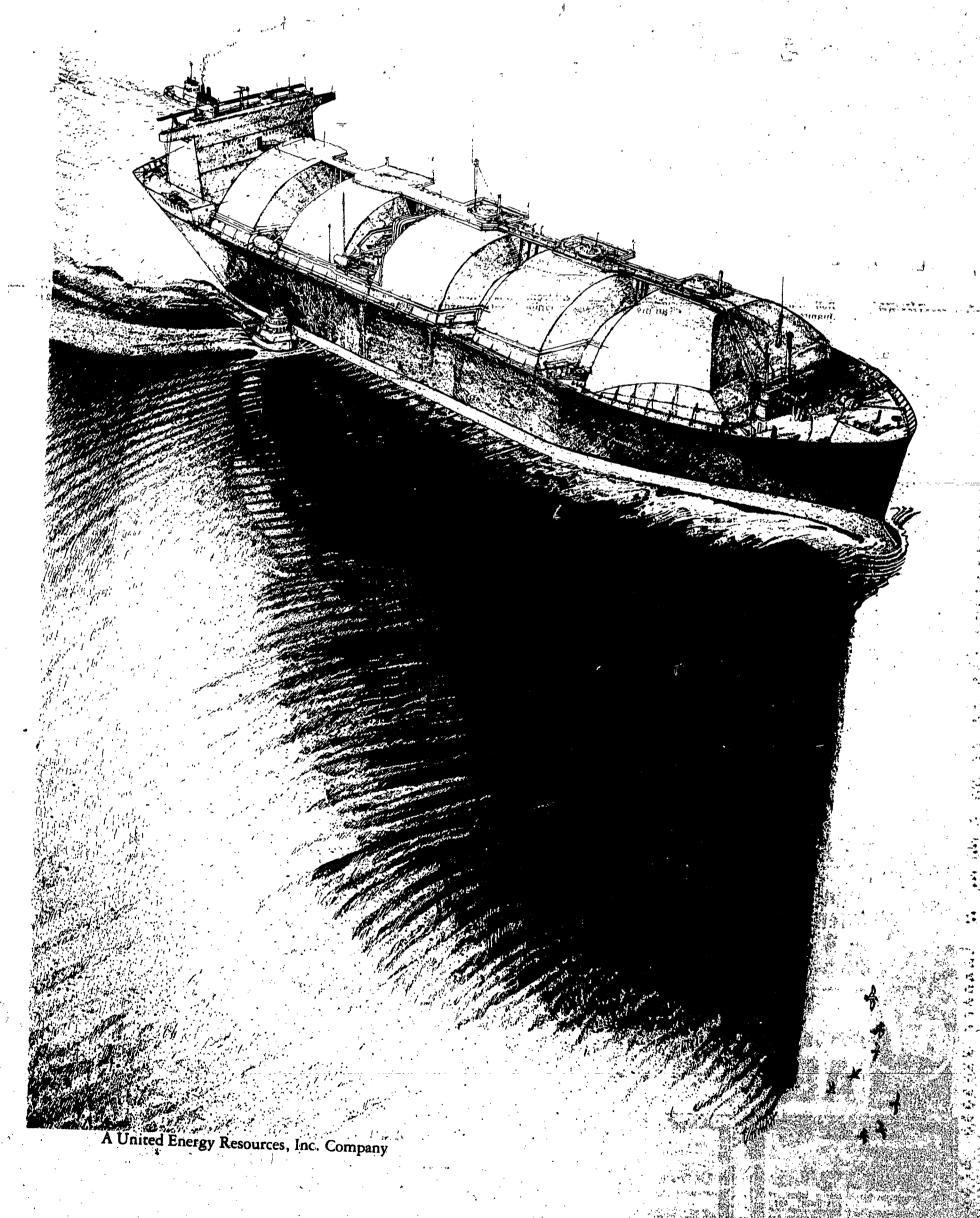

United LNG Company, a subsidiary of United Gas, will, subject to regulatory agency approval, buy approximately 2.3 trillion cubic feet of Algerian gas over a 20-year period, with deliveries expected to begin in 1983.

This gas will be more expensive, but it is needed to meet the high-priority requirements of United's customers during a period when no other source of similar magnitude is likely to be developed.

Shipped in liquefied form by 12 LNG tankers from Algeria, the gas will be returned to gaseous form at a Texas Gulf Coast plant. From there it will go into the United Gas pipeline system for delivery to its customers.

Another way we're working for a better energy future. PIPE LINE COMPANY
